

Name: _____

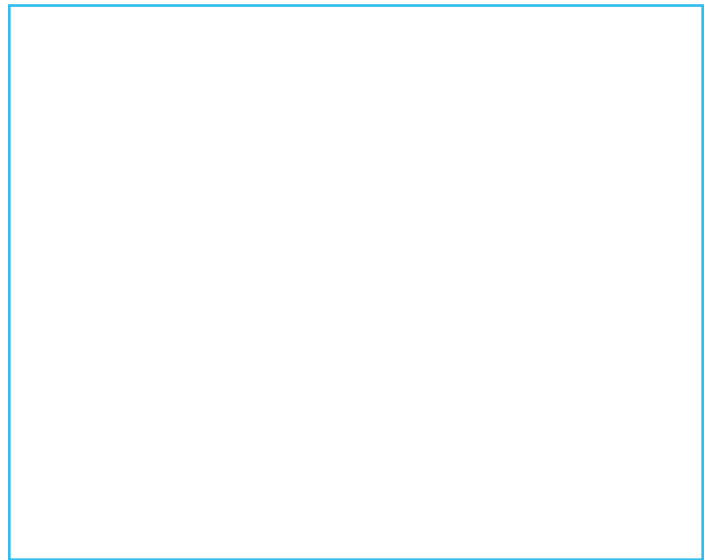

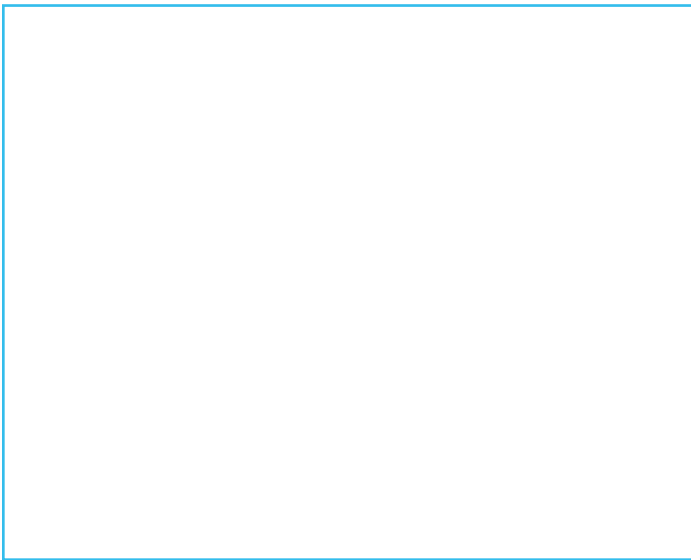

Comedy Duo

Create two characters who have to solve a problem as a team. BUT, make those characters as different from each other as possible! In a comedy story it can be fun to write about two characters who don't get along very well!

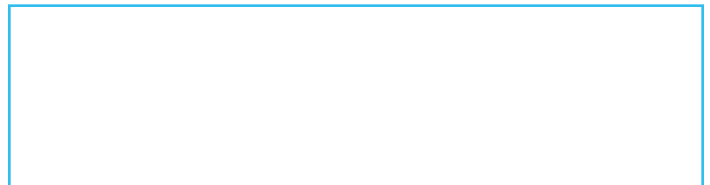

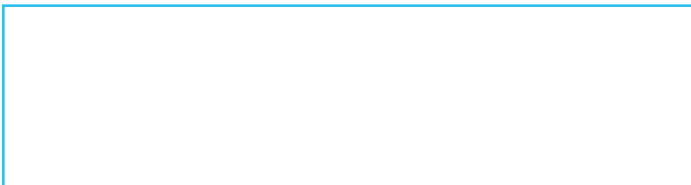

Draw two characters of your own. You can start by using different shapes for the character's faces, so they look very different:

Write some words to describe their personalities—or how they act.

Try to make them as different as possible:

What big problem will they need to work together to solve?
